THE BATTLE OF MANASSAS.

The following paper was read by Mrs Kate Hooper of this city at a recent meeting of the local organization of the U. D. C.

Early in May 1861, the Alexandrians raised a Confederate flag on the Marshall House. There was speaking and music. The 17th Virginia, nearly all Alexandrians, and the Fairfax cavalry, made up of young men from Fairfax Court House and Centerville, were with us. We were up late and when day dawned our city was filled with U. S. soldiers and a man of war was at our wharf with her port holes open to us in case of resistance. Captured without firing a gun!

Col. Ellsworth marched his regiment right up to the Marshall House stairs and tore down the flag. As he came down the proprietor, Jim Jackson, shot him dead and one of the soldiers ran his bayonet through Jackson and pinned him to the floor at the feet of his wife.

There was intense excitement and during that time the 17th Virginia and the Fairfax cavalry passed out of the Old Dominion Road and escaped, all but one of the Centerville boys, who had gone home with us. We concealed him that day and after supper some of our neighbors walked with us to the West End, where we parted with him and he made his way safe to his company.

The people quieted down, the U. S. troops threw up fortifications around our city, as it was a very important point, only eight miles from the capital, and they were determined to hold it at all risks.

They marched thousands through there, fully equipped with ammunition, horses and provisions and camped them around and sent out a body of men towards Fairfax Court House. Our men retreated from there to Centerville. They advanced the U. S. army up near Centerville and camped near there. They continued to advance and ours to retreat until our men reached the place which they had fortified and there they halted.

On July 21, Gen. Winfield Scott and party passed through with flags flying, bands playing, shouting "On to Richmond" as if they held the key to everything and intended to wipe out the entire South, expressing contempt for our fleeing army, as they called it. When we viewed it all and realized how few men we had and how poorly equipped we were to cope with such a host, our hearts were heavy indeed. All day long and into the night we listened to the roar of the cannon. Some would sleep awhile and get up so others might rest. The whole city was watching and praying, for dear old Alexandria was as true as steel. Among her 15,000 population you could not find twenty-five men against the little band of brave men that were fighting on that never-to-be-forgotton July 21st.

When it was light enough for us to see, the rain was pouring down on a demoralized army, in full retreat, crestfallen, woe-be-gone, the most complete rout that was ever seen during the war.

There may have been harder battles and more loss of life, but the lesson learned by the United States army on the Bull Run—Manassas battle field was, that the last man in the south would die before they would be subdued, so the only way was to outnumber them, which they did.

[Batesville, Ark., Guard, March 21.

[Mrs. Hooper will be remembered by many of the old residents of Alexandria. During the war she resided here and devoted much of her life to the care of the Confederate soldiers and their families.]

CURRENCY MEASURE PASSED BY SENATE.

The Aldrich financial bill, to provide for an emergency issue of taxed currency notes in time of money stringency, was passed by the Senate at 6:25 o'clock last evening, by 42 ayes to 16 noes.

In substance, it authorizes national banks to issue such notes on depositing as collateral United States or State bonds, or the bonds of certain described counties and municipalities, these notes to be subject to a progressive tax, which will compel the banks to withdraw the notes from circulation when the emergency has passed.

Before the final vote, Senator Teller, acting for Senator Bailey, who was absent, proposed the democratic substitute for the bill, and when this was voted down—42 to 13—offered as an amendment the salient feature of the Bailey bill, which provided that the government and not banks should issue the emergency currency. Both bill and amendment were defeated by strict party votes.

Do not Crowd the Season.

The first warm days of spring bring with them a desire to get out and enjoy the exhilarating air and sunshine. Children that have been housed up all winter are brought out and you wonder where they all came from. The heavy winter clothing is thrown aside and many shed their flannels. Then a cold wave comes and people say that grip is pidemic. Colds at this season are even more dangerous than in mid-winter, as there is more danger of pneumonia. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, however, and you will have nothing to fear. It always cures, and we have never known a cold to result in pneumonia when it was used. It is pleasant and safe to take. Children like it. For sale by W. F. Creighton and Richard Gibson.

Can you believe your senses?

When two of them, taste and smell, having been impaired if not utterly destroyed, by Nasal Catarrh, are fully restored by Ely's Cream Balm, can you doubt that this remedy deserves all that has been said of it by the thousands who have used it? It is applied directly to the affected air-passage and begins its healing work at once. Why not get it today? All druggists or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York, on receipt of 50 cents.

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE AND VIRGINIA ADVERTISER.

SATURDAY EVENING, MAR. 28, 1908.

WHEN the grand jury was making its grand swing around Alexandria recently and when some of its members seemed to be talking to everybody who would listen to them and telling what they were going to do, the Gazette advised caution and moderation, saying that over zealousness was as much a fault as indifference and adding that Alexandria people frequently did the city much harm. The result of the grand jury's report, as was anticipated, did the city gross injustice, especially as it was greatly exaggerated and in several particulars entirely incorrect. Since the presentation of the report several newspapers have held Alexandria up to scorn, among them the Richmond News Leader, which says: "It is hard to realize that in this country and in this year of Grace, conditions actually exist such as are described by the grand jury report on public school buildings in the city of Alexandria." Then the paper quotes extracts from the grand jury's report and adds:

This sounds like something in a Cuban or Filipino town before the American occupation. Yet, Alexandria is a thoroughly American city, almost a suburb of the capital of the country, inhabited by people of unusual intelligence and with energy and progressive spirit. We surmise they have submitted to the dreadful conditions described by the grand jury simply because they have become accustomed to them by long usage. And, after all, while the sanitary villainies at Alexandria are visible and plain to the senses, death never lurked there more surely than in the schoolroom at East Collinswood, in Ohio, one of the wealthiest and most progressive States in the union.

The whole thing is a libel upon Alexandria but those in authority and who should know better brought it upon themselves and the city suffers!

THE Aldrich emergency currency bill passed the Senate yesterday afternoon by a vote of 42 to 16. Of those who voted against the measure were five republicans, Senators La Follette, of Wisconsin; Borah, of Idaho; Brown, of Nebraska; Bourne, of Oregon, and Heyburn, of Idaho. Senators Teller, of Colorado; Owen, of Oklahoma, and Johnston, of Alabama, among the democrats voted for the measure, and Daniel and Martin, of Virginia, were paired in its favor. With these exceptions, the division was on party lines, the democrats voting against the bill. As passed, the bill provides for not more than $500,000,000 of emergency currency to be issued to national banks upon deposit by them of State, county and municipal bonds to be approved by the Secretary of the Treasury. The currency is to be issued with a view of securing an equitable distribution of the currency over the United States and in accordance with the unimpaired capital and surplus of banks in each State. Banks are to pay for this emergency circulation one-half of 1 per cent. a month during the first four months it is circulated, and afterward three-quarters of 1 per cent. a month. The bill provides that national banks shall pay not less than 1 per cent. on government funds deposited with them. The bill has been improved chiefly by the removal of railroad bonds from the classes of securities that may be made the basis of emergency money.

SHAKESPEARE spoke of the law's delay, and trial by jury has become so farcical in recent years that a burlesque opera has been written on the subject. But the proceedings of the present term of the Corporation Court of this city, including the action of the grand jury which did gross injustice to the city, furnishes food for serious thought. In that court a man who was charged with breaking into a slaughter house and stealing a hog was sent to the penitentiary, while one of three men charged with highway robbery and shooting their victim was fined five dollars and sent to jail for a year! The matter very naturally has caused much talk, but so far no body has said stop!

IN THE matter of the election yesterday by the legislature of a judge to fill the vacancy caused by the removal of Judge Blackstone it is said that a distinct surprise was sprung, when, early in the day, it was seen that Otho F. Mears, of Northampton, predicted a winner, and understood to be Governor Swanson's choice for the vacant seat, would come out a bare third in the running. Does this mean that the governor is losing his hold?

THE VIRGINIA legislature has adjourned and the people feel safer.

Representative Ferris, of Oklahoma, introduced in the House yesterday a resolution providing for the erection in Washington of a monument to the memory of General Robert E. Lee. The resolution declares that "for more than forty years it has been the wish of the united population of the country to erase from memory all differences between the States in the past."

From Washington.

Washington, D. C., March 28.

Although the House leaders have not announced what programme they will follow to put the Aldrich currency bill through, republican members of the committee on banking and currency are in favor of shelving the Fowler bill in favor of the Aldrich measure despite the fact that they have reported the Fowler bill for passage. For this reason, the Speaker at present favors the regular procedure of referring the Aldrich bill to the committee on banking and currency. He believes the committee will report in favor of substituting it for the Fowler measure.

Secretary Taft left Washington today for Philadelphia where he will attend the banquet of the Yale alumni and will deliver an address. He will return to Washington tonight and will remain here until next week, when he will leave for Columbus on Wednesday, to address the board of trade on April 2. He will deliver addresses before the Hamilton Club and the Commercial Club of Chicago, on April 3 and 4.

At Garfield Hospital it was stated today that Representative Sherman, of New York, who has been ill there for several days, passed a comfortable night and was greatly improved. His physicians state that no danger is to be apprehended from now on.

As finally passed by the Senate and sent to the House for action, the Aldrich emergency currency bill provides that:

When business conditions demand additional circulation, national banks may, upon application, issue more notes.

The Secretary of the Treasury and the Comptroller of the Currency are to be the judges of the necessity for the additional circulation, and the amount to be issued by each bank.

It is to equitably distributed, so that no one section of the country may secure a preponderating amount.

The total is limited to $500,000,000.

To secure this emergency currency, banks may deposit with the Treasury Department bonds of any State, county or municipality, which for ten years has not defaulted in payment of either principal or interest and whose funded indebtedness does not exceed ten per cent. of its taxable property. Also bonds of the Porto Rico and Philippine governments and the city of Manila.

Circulation may be issued up to 90 per cent. of the market value of such bonds but not in excess of par value.

Emergency notes will be taken at the rate of one-half of one per cent. per month for the first four months, and three-fourths of one per cent. thereafter.

Banks must make monthly returns as to amount of such circulation outstanding, under severe penalties for false statements.

Bands outside of reserve cities now required to keep reserves equal to 15 per cent. of their deposits, must keep four-fifths of that amount in lawful money, or in acceptable securities, of the latter, however, not to the extent of more than one-third.

Banks must pay not less than one per cent. interest on deposits.

Banks are prohibited from investing any of their funds or deposits in the stocks or securities of any corporation, any one of whose officers is an officer of the bank.

HOUSE.

As minority leader, Mr. Williams found today that there was a more or less serious division in his ranks, all because he had approved of the suggestion of the President that tolls be collected from corporations for the use of the waterways.

Mr. Richardson (dem. Ala.) took issue with the minority leader in a speech in the House. Mr. Richardson claimed such a policy would interfere with State's rights.

Mr. Williams denied this, but said he did not claim to speak for the minority on this subject.

The Legislature.

Clarence W. Robinson, of Newport News, was elected judge of the Eleventh judicial circuit yesterday afternoon to supply the vacancy created by the removal by the legislature of Judge J. W. G. Blackstone.

Eleven ballots were taken before the contest narrowed down between Robinson and Nathaniel B. Westcott, of Accomac. The final vote stood 67 to 46.

The caucus was frequently interrupted by disorder and more than once the chairman threatened to clear the hall.

A distinct surprise was sprung when, early in the day, it was seen that Otho F. Mears, of Northampton, understood to be Governor Swanson's choice, would come out third in the running. Each of the three candidates was dropped once and it was anybody's fight until the final ballot was taken.

Judge Montague controlled about 25 votes, and after he was dropped on the sixth ballot, his strength was about equally divided among the three remaining candidates.

The struggle would hardly have been ended by midnight but for the adoption of a resolution immediately after the midday recess. Under the terms of the resolution all four of the candidates were placed in nomination, with the understanding that as soon as a man had twice received the smallest number of votes he should be finally dropped. Operating under this rule Judge Montague was the first to lose.

On a later ballot Westcott led over Mears by a bare majority of two votes, and this brought the matter down to the final ballot. The candidates were Messrs. J. B. Westcott, of Accomac; O. F. Mears, of Northampton; E. T. Montague of Hampton, and C. W. Robinson, of Newport News.

Immediately after the caucus the Senate and House met separately and elected Judge Robinson. Applause and cheers greeted the election and a minute later Speaker Byrd and President Ellyson, of the House and Senate, respectively, declared the 1908 general assembly adjourned.

Sheer terror is declared to have caused the death of Mrs. Annie Whitbreck, 78 years old, widow of Supreme Court Justice Whitbreck. The sight of flames in the building where she lived in New York is said to have frightened the aged woman so that she dropped dead in the arms of her son-in-law.

An attempt was made shortly after last midnight to dynamite the new bridge under construction by the American Bridge Company over the Little Gunpowder river at Bradshaw, in Baltimore county. The derrick of the bridge company was damaged, but the bridge is thought to be intact.

Prince Helie de Sagan will marry Mme. Anne Gould, divorced wife of his cousin, Count Boni de Castellane, within a month. This statement was made in New York yesterday, and it is said that if George J. Gould's consent is obtained, the wedding will take place in this city. If he does not consent, the marriage will be abroad.

There will be no occasion for the Navy Department to lay off the men employed at the Washington navy yard. After weeks of suspense, during which many rumors of lay-offs have flown about the Capital City, the House yesterday came to the rescue and passed an urgent deficiency appropriation bill, which will cure the threatened trouble.

It is reported in Rome, that the only difficulty in the way of the Duke of Abruzzi's marriage to Miss Katherine Elkins is the lady's refusal to change her religion, which King Victor Emmanuel exacts as an indispensable condition to his giving his sanction to the marriage. The duke's visit to America was undertaken especially to persuade Miss Elkins to change her religious faith and to overcome her family's opposition to her changing it.

In the Senate yesterday Senator Burkett introduced a bill to stop gambling at Benning. The House bill was referred to a subcommittee of the committee on the District of Columbia. After a brief executive session, the Senate adjourned until Monday. In the House bills were passed granting pensions to about 350 veterans of the civil war and their dependants. An urgent deficiency bill was passed. In committee of the whole, the House further considered the agricultural appropriation bill.

One of the biggest jail deliveries in the history of West Virginia occurred at Fairmount early today when six prisoners obtained their liberty by forcing the iron bars and doors of the county jail. Five of them made a clean get away, but the sixth, after enjoying a hearty breakfast, returned to the jail.

SOUTHERN METHODISTS.

Heated discussion on the denominational standing of the Randolph Macon system of colleges occupied the morning session yesterday of the Baltimore Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church South, in Roanoke, and the afternoon was spent by the delegates in visiting the Randolph Macon Woman's College at Lynchburg. No decision was reached in the Randolph Macon matter, but the arguments were continued when the conference met again this morning.

It is claimed that the delegates are about equally divided on the question as to whether aged professors of the colleges should accept the Carnegie pension, given under the strict provision that the beneficiaries are not connected with sectarian institutions. The board of education, to which the matter was referred, reported unfavorably upon allowing the fund to be taken advantage of by the Randolph Macon professors and teachers.

The committee to consider the overture made by the Methodist Episcopal Church on federation was read at the close of the morning's session.

The committee resolved to ask Bishop Wilson to appoint a committee to meet a similiar one from the Methodist Episcopal Church, and also to request the other conference's contiguous to the Baltimore Conference to appoint such committees.

THE NEW BAPTIST CHURCH.

To the Editor of the Alexandria Gazette:

Will you kindly permit me to say, through your columns, that the meaning of the new Baptist Church, which is to be organized tomorrow afternoon, is not a division in the First Baptist Church, as some people seem to suppose, but the legitimate natural and expected culmination of the work at the mission. The First Church is united and healthy and encourages the new church. It means progress and prosperity and not division.

Pastor of First Baptist Church.

SHOOTING ON A STREET CAR.

In a desperate affray on a street car on Pennsylvania avenue, Washington, last night, a negro and a white man were shot by Congressman Thomas J. Heflin, of Alabama. Thomas Lumby, the negro, was shot in the head and is in a critical condition, and Thomas McCreary, a New York horse trader, is suffering from a wound in the leg. The shooting of McCreary was accidental. Mr. Heflin was arrested and taken to the Sixth police precinct station, where the charge of assault to kill was placed against him. Later he was released on $5,000 bail.

The shooting occurred shortly after 7 o'clock as the car reached the corner of Pennsylvania avenue and Sixth street, bound for Capitol Hill. Congressman Heflin, accompanied by Congressman Edwin J. Ellerbe, of South Carolina, had boarded the traction car at Twelfth street and Pennsylvania avenue, Mr. Heflin being on his way to deliver a temperance lecture at the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal Church, Four and a Half street and John Marshall Place.

Upon boarding the car he observed two negro passengers, one of whom was Thomas Lumby, and who was in the act of taking a drink from a bottle of whisky. There were a number of other passengers, including several ladies. Mr. Heflin says he remonstrated with Lumby and asked him to stop drinking, saying:

"Don't take that drink; there are ladies here, and it is not right. It is against the law for you to do this thing in a street car, and I hope you will put that bottle away." The other negro, who was sober, attempted to take the bottle away from his friend, but failed. It is said that Lumby became offended at Mr. Heflin's remonstrances and applied vile epithets.

Then the colored man, it is said, attacked the Congressman.

As the car reached Sixth street and Pennsylania avenue Heflin and Lumby were engaged in a desperate struggle. Mr. Heflin, who is a large, powerful man, succeeded in throwing Lumby off the car as it came to a stop. Most of the occupants of the car hastily alighted, including Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCleary.

The negro fell to the ground on being pushed off the car. He rose and, it is said, began cursing Mr. Heflin again, and made a motion for his hip pocket as if to draw a weapon, whereupon Mr. Heflin fired at him though the car window, missing the negro and hitting Thomas McCleary, who was about 20 feet from the car.

Mr. Heflin fired once or twice again, one of the shots striking Lumby in the head above the ear. Lumby ran a short distance and fell. Mr. Heflin was later arrested and released on bail.

At the Emergency Hospital it was said Lumby, though badly wounded and unconscious, has a chance to recover. His skull was fractured, but the surgeons were unable to ascertain whether the bullet entered the head.

News of the affair spread quickly over the city, and in half an hour Mr. Heflin was surrounded by scores of congressmen from southern States. Congressmen Gaines of Tennessee and Clayton of Alabama found bondsmen, but it was long after 9 o'clock before the bonding office could be located.

Mr. Heflin explained that he is not in the habit of carrying a revolver. About three weeks ago, when the House was considering the bill to extend the street car tracks to the new Union station, Mr. Heflin offered an amendment establishing jimcrow regulations on the street cars. Since that time he has received so many anonymous letters threatening his life that he recently was given permission by the authorities to carry a revolver. Senator Tillman has received similar letters.

"I was clearly justified in what I did," said Mr. Heflin, on the floor of the House in discussing the shooting with friends. "I have since learned that the negro was a dangerous character with a bad court record." Mr. Heflin gave out some of the threatening letters he said he had received regarding his proposal of "Jim Crow" cars in the District of Columbia, and which led him to go armed.

"Prepare to meet your God, go guarded night and day from now on until your death, fear and tremble, there is not a step between you and death, vile wretch. Every person who fears God and loves justice is against you because you would add to the already unjustly oppressed. Go guarded and well armed. Patience has ceased to be a virtue. The South is the property of the colored man."

Mr. Heflin appeared at the district attorney's office today, accompanied by Representative Clayton and a number of other Congressmen. He asked that his case in police court be continued, to give him time to get counsel, which was granted. The date of the preliminary hearing will be decided upon Monday.

It was said at the Emergency Hospital this morning that the negro's condition was not serious and that he would probably be able to leave the hospital today.

Representative Heflin was given a cordial reception by his southern colleagues when he appeared on the floor of the House, just after that body convened today.

He spent the first half hour in private conversation with Representative Ellerbe (dem., S. C.), who witnessed the greater part of the fight last night.

Mr. Heflin, it will be remembered, was one of the speakers at the banquet given by Alexandria-Washington Lodge of Masons on the night of the 22d of last February.

Postoffice Dynamited.

Chicago, Mar. 28.—Three bandits, early today dynamited a safe in the postoffice at Lexington, Ill., near Bloomington, secured $1,000 in cash and stamps, and held their pursuers at bay at the points of revolvers. After the robbery they jumped aboard a Chicago and Alton fast freight bound for this city. The robbers secured entrance to the postoffice by prying apart strong steel bars that protected the windows. Citizens of the town were awakened by the explosion and a pursuit of the desperadoes that led through the business districts was taken up, but all escaped.

New York Stock Market.

New York, March 28.—The market during the first hour was again of a reactionary character, and at the end of the hour prices of nearly all the active issues showed declines of about one point from last night's close.

A fractional rally occurred after a downward movement in the first hour but the decline was resumed in the later trading, and at the close nearly everything in which there had been any fair amount of dealing showed some loss.

Today's Telegraphic News.

Attempt to Dynamite Residence.

Denver, Col., Mar. 28.—An attempt was made early today by unknown parties to dynamite the residence of former Adjutant-General Bulkely Wells, General Manager of the Smuggler Union Miners at Telleride. Wells was in charge of the State troops during the mining troubles several years ago at Telluride and incurred the enmity of the miners at that time.

It was Wells who arrested Charles F. Meyer, William D. Haywood, and George Pettibone on the charge of having killed Governor Steunenberg and who was in charge of the train in which they were rushed from Colorado to Idaho.

Ever since the troubles in the district Wells has maintained an armed guard about his home. He has also had electric lights strung so that one approaching from any quarter can be seen long before he reaches the house. Despite this fact some one today managed to explode the bomb the exact character of which is not yet known. At the time Wells was sleeping, as was his habit, on a bed placed on an outer screened porch. The bomb was placed under this porch and set off.

The side of the house was torn completely out, hardly a stick of the bed remained, and fragments of wood were scattered over the neighborhood while Wells was thrown many feet.

Wells was made totally deaf, rendered unconscious and his face badly lacerated by the fall.

Tornadoes and Cyclones.

Keokuk, Ia., Mar. 28.—A terrific tornado swept over Lee county early this morning and completely wrecked a score of farm houses near the town of New Boston. A dozen persons were injured, but none fatally. Three country churches and one school house were caught in the cyclone and reduced to kindling wood. The wind caught up the farm houses and twisted them to pieces, scattering the debris over the country side for more than a mile. A large number of cattle were killed. Further damage by the cyclone is reported across the river in Hancock county, Illinois.

Muncie, Ind., Mar. 28.—A disastrous storm swept over the north and west portions of Delaware county early today. As a result at least one house was torn down over the heads of its sleeping occupants and the tenant, Joseph Hayden, was seriously injured. Barns were blown to splinters, implements and vehicles destroyed, live stock killed, telephone systems were kept out of business and plate glass windows all over Muncie were shattered, while the roofs of many buildings were blown in.

Bloomington, Ill., Mar. 28.—Twenty persons were injured and many farm houses were wrecked by a tornado which passed over Deer Creek, near here, last night. A portion of the little town was completely destroyed. Two schoolhouses in the path of the cyclone were wrecked. It is feared that several of the injured will die.

The Gillette Case.

Albany, N. Y., Mar. 28.—Pending the completion of a private examination of an anonymous witness, who had submitted an affidavit the hearing before Governor Hughes upon the application for a respite in the case of Chester Gillette condemned to die Monday morning for the murder of Grace Brown, was adjoined until 4:30 this afternoon.

It is understood that the affidavit referred to alleged events previous to the death of Grace Brown and had no direct bearing upon the murder. It is also understood that the witness came from Cortland, N. Y., where Grace Brown worked in a skirt factory and where she met Chester Gillette. There is no further effort to conceal the fact that the main point, aside from the mysterious affidavit, raised in the request for a respite was that it could be proved that Grace Brown suffered from epileptic fits. The theory is presented that she was seized with a fit while in a boat with Gillette, and fell into the lake.

Albany, N. Y., Mar. 28.—Chester Gillette will tell his own story of his relations with Grace Brown. But it will not be known to the public until after his lifeless body has been carried from the death chair. He has written the tale of his brief years. The last words are being penned this afternoon.

Rheumatic Pains Relieved.

Deaths in Earthquake.

City of Mexico, Mar. 28.—Death in the earthquake Thursday night in the republic are expected to reach 500. Two cities and three villages were completely destroyed and many villages damaged. The cities are Uhilpancingo and Chilapa. The combined population of the destroyed municipalities is 22,000. Government troops and provisions are being rushed to the scenes of terror today.

The greater part of Chilapa burned and the panic-stricken people made no effort to extinguish the flames or care for the dead, who are thought to number 300. At Chilpancingo reports say a few were killed. The other dead are reported from the villages. Many of the dead were cremated and the exact number will never be known. In Chilpancingo not a building is left standing.

Reports say the towns of San Jose, San Lorenzo de Morena, Querenos and Oxatical, in the State of Gurrero, have suffered serious damage and some of them may be ruined.

In the town of San Jose an adobe church was destroyed while services were in progress. Of the fifty who were in the church many of them were killed or injured. One American, Mrs. Emma Dorville, dropped dead from fright in the panic which followed in the theatre at Vera Cruz.

Lockout of Shipbuilders.

Hamburg, Mar. 28.—Two thousand shipbuilders were laid off here and 5,000 at Kiel today as the employers' latest move in the lockout they are gradually extending as their weapon in the pending labor fight. Between the men who have walked out of their own accord and those locked out by the shipyards, a out 12,000 are now idle at the various German plants. The employers are having rather the better of the fight at present, the depression in the shipbuilding industry making it easy for them to shut down temporarily. The men, however, show no indications of yielding.

"Yukon Gold."

New York, March 28.—"Lawson of Boston" is giving the New York curb market the time of its life today. His advertising campaign, detailing the alleged good qualities of "Yukon Gold," resulted in the monopolization of that commodity by the brokers while a crowd was stirred to the scene that compelled the calling of police reserves to keep order. There was much excitement at the opening and it was conservatively estimated that during the first 25 minutes some 200,000 shares were dealt in. All other stocks had been sidetracked by the traders as every broker had orders to execute either one way or another. Sales were reported at from 6 to 6¾, while some people averred that certain sales were made at seven. However, the official quotations made after the first half hour's dealings was 6¾ bid, seven asked.

Boston, March 28—"Yukon gold" caused the wildest scenes today that have ever been witnessed on the Boston curb market. Two husky former football players, who acted for the firm of Grannis and Lawrence, the principal sellers, were almost swept off their feet. In the rush several frenzied brokers fell and the crowd trampled upon them and even used their prostrate bodies as a better stand from which to attract the attention of the selling brokers. In their eagerness to reach the sellers men placed their hands on the shoulders of those in front of them and vaulted over their heads. Coats were torn and many brokers were seen wildly gesticulating, oblivious of the blood streaming down their faces. During the first ten minutes 50,000 shares were dealt in at prices between 6 and 6¾. At this figure buyers could not get enough of the stock. The buying was well scattered into small lots. The stock closed at 7¾.

When the animal was cut open by a veterinary surgeon to determine the cause of death a live snake 18 inches long was found wrapped about the windpipe. Accusing himself of having violated a town ordinance by allowing his chimney to burn out on a windy day, Mayor Neff, of Newmarket, Shenandoah county, tried himself, found himself guilty, and imposed upon himself a fine of $1 and costs. The fine was then paid, and the conscientious mayor turned the money over to the town treasurer. He then entered upon the docket of the mayor's court a record of the case. Mayor Neff said that if he had not the money with which to pay his fine he would have ordered the town sergeant to take him to jail.

HONORS FOR ALEXANDRIAN.

The following account of an art exhibition, recently held in Paris, taken from the European edition of the Herald, is copied and given a prominent place in the literary and art section of the New York Herald for Sunday, March 22, 1908, under the captain:

"AMERICAN WOMEN HOLD EXHIBITION.

"The American Women's Art Association of Paris, which has Miss Catherine Carter Critcher as president, and Miss Moffatt as secretary, is at present holding its fourteenth annual exhibition in the rooms of the American Art Students' Club, No. 4 Rue de Chevreuse, Paris.

"In all fifty-five artists, who have made their homes in Paris or who are studying art in France, have sent works of more than average merit, and though in one or two cases it is to be presumed that the artists have kept back their more ambitious efforts for submission to the hanging committee of the Salon, as a rule the American women artists have evidently sent of their best. The pictures and drawings are displayed in three rooms, two being devoted to the paintings, miniatures and sculpture and one to the drawings.

"Miss Catherine Carter Critcher also occupies a prominent position in this room, and her two canvases, "Margaret" and "A Protrait of Miss Van H—" are among the best pieces of work in the exhibition."

Miss Critcher is well-known in Alexandria, where for many years she made her home, and her many friends are proud of the success she has made in her art at the recognized art center of the world, and this exhibition adds new laurels to her name.

Believe Massacre Was Planned.

Port au Prince, March 28.—Representatives here of foreign governments are conducting a quiet inquiry on their own account of reports that certain Haytian government leaders plotted a general massacre of the administration's supposed enemies during the recent troubles and that large numbers of Europeans were marked for death.

As the story reaches the consuls the butchery was only prevented by the arrival of foreign warships, which the natives had not expected so soon. President Nord Alexis is not suspected of complicity in the supposed plot, but several high officials under him are believed to have had a force of soldiers ready to begin the killing as soon as plans had been completed for making quick work of the job.

What seriously complicates the situation is the fact that most of the Haytians—even those in high official positions—think the United States would protect them from European vengeance no matter to what extent they might carry their excesses.

CHARGED WITH ENTERING A HOUSE.

Between one and two o'clock this morning Officers Ferguson and Rawlett had their attention directed to the suspicious movements of three men. The latter were at times on King street, Commerce and Payne. One of the trio, when they had returned to King street, left his companions and disappeared in a northerly direction, but the others proceeded to the south side of King street, between Fayette and Payne, and stopped in front of a fruit store. They later raised the cellar door when one of the men descended; the other then moved toward a telephone pole. At this juncture the officers unexpectedly appeared and took the man who was on the sidewalk in custody. He proved to be Forrest Oshlert. The officers then ordered the man who was in the cellar to come up. He obeyed, and proved to be Edward Maple. The two men were conducted to the station house and this morning they were brought before the Police Court. The prisoners in their defense said they had no intention of committing any offense. Maple said he had been drinking and entered the cellar in order to find a place to sleep. There was no person in the house at the time. Justice Caton fined them $5 each and in addition sent them to jail for thirty days for entering a building in the night.

FLOUR AGENCY.

As will be seen by an advertisement elsewhere in today's Gazette, the Washburn—Crosby Co., of Minneapolis, has appointed Mr. E. E. Lawler wholesale distributor in northern Virginia for the sale of their famous "Gold Medal" brand of flour. "Gold Medal" is a high grade spring wheat patent flour and stands today the leading advertised and best known brand of flour on the market. "Gold Medal" is known for its universal popularity, it being sold in all parts of the world. The Washburn—Crosby Milling Company, of Louisville, has also designated Mr. Lawler sole distributor in northern Virginia for the sale of their famous "Superlative" brand flour. "Superlative" is a high-grade winter wheat flour, and its popularity with the trade is same as "Gold Medal." It is the intention of these mills, through its agent, to make these brands of flour the leaders in this territory.

WOULDN'T TELL.

Among the cases before Justice Caton in the Police Court this morning was that of a white man who had "been there before many a time" on the chronic charge of drunken and disorderly conduct. The justice asked him where he obtained liquor. The accused at first declined to tell, but later said he did not remember where he procured the potions that had gotten him in trouble. Upon being questioned closely the prisoner said he drank the liquor from a bottle, but he could not say positively who furnished it. A fine of $10 was imposed upon the man and in default of payment he will be sent to jail. A fine of $50 can be exacted from persons who dispense liquors to well-known drunkards, and the object of the justice was to ascertain the name of the party who furnished the liquor.

INSPECTION TRIP.

The steamer Wakefield of the Washington and Potomac Steamboat Company service, which was down the river on an inspection trip with General Manager Van Cleat, General Agent George O. Carpinter, William M. Reardon, agent at this city, and other officials of the steamboat company aboard, has returned. The object of the trip was to ascertain what is needed to build up the business and to induce the down-river merchants to do their buying in Alexandria and Washington.

AUCTION SALES.

Mr. Samuel H. Lunt, auctioneer, sold today for John D. Normoyle, Henry Basder and P. M. Bradshaw, trustees, a lot of ground with the improvements thereon on the corner of Queen and Columbus streets to W. H. McCuen for $2,650.

Captain R. F. Knox, auctioneer, sold a lot of ground with the buildings and improvements thereon, No. 406 Wilkes street, between Royal and Pitt streets, to M. L. Harrison for $975.

NEW PASSION PLAY.

As will be seen by their advertisement, the Alexandria Amusement Company will exhibit the new Passion Play at 426 King street on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. There will be two performances each day—2.30 in the afternoon and 7 at night. "The Holy City" will be illustrated and sung at each performance. There will be four rolls of hand-colored pictures, the exhibition lasting one hour.

BAILED FOR HIS APPEARANCE.

W. C. Fry, for whose arrest a warrant had been issued on the charge of violating the internal revenue laws, and who had left this section and gone to Maryland, returned to this city today and surrendered himself to Deputy U. S. Marshal Glover. He was taken before Commissioner Garnett when he gave bail in the sum of $200 for his appearance before the Corporation Court.

ALEXANDRIA TO THE FRONT.

THE CITY AS WELL AS THE MERCHANT AND MANUFACTURER MUST ADVERTISE.

That publicity is the key to modern business success is so apparent that it would hardly seem necessary to argue it, but individuals and communities do not always see and think alike.

The man who has a business and wants it to grow must advertise in some form or other. It is advertising that sends the stuff that makes Milwaukee famous to all parts of the country, not merely by car loads but by solid trains.

The names of the millionaire makers of soap, chewing gum, stove polish, and a score of other articles, which would not be known beyond the city where made, except for advertising, will occur to the intelligent reader.

The general laws or principles which apply to individual business growth apply equally to States, counties, cities, towns and villages. To sell goods they must be advertised, and to settle up a community its resources and advantages must be exploited.

To build up a city the people living there should let the world know their commercial and industrial opportunities. All enterprising cities and towns in these days have commercial organizations. Alexandria has one, and it is doing a good work. It can do more with the whole community back of it.

There is no community without its strong points for manufacturing the woods, metals, clays etc., abounding in its tributary territory, in connection with its resort, residential, commercial and other forms of home and business life.

The capital stock of a town is found in vacant farm, garden, and orchard acres; in undeveloped beds of clay, coal, iron ore, stone, etc., in silent forests of merchantable timber, and in trade opportunities within its sphere of influence. These are what the community has for sale.

Every new factory or shop for which there may be a proper opening, every new farm or garden or orchard opened up, every new man or family brought into the community, adds in proportion to outcome but that much to the resources of the neighborhood, though the increased productive and consumptive power and outside trade increase.

The question of how best to do it is all important. First of all there must be harmony of opinion and union of effort. There should be nothing of the spirit which James Whitcomb Riley has so aptly set forth in rhyme:

"And I've known some to lie and wait,
And get up soon and sit up late,
To find some fellow they could hate,
For going at a faster gait"

It is surprising what can be accomplished when even a few men "get together" in building up a community, or in killing it. The microbes of progress and harvest, or of delay and decay, can make or break a town. No community should be envious to hatred of what may be going on elsewhere. Let enterprise beget enterprise.

The world is big, markets are increasing, the public is demanding new and better things, and there is always sale for the best. There must be no dog in the manger spirit displayed when a proposition comes to establish a second or third enterprise when one is already profitably employed. Had that sort of disposition been exhibited down at High Point, North Carolina, there would not now be upwards of six furniture factories in what is a bustling city, one not on the map when the war left the South prostrate.

Each town or city should do its best with what it has.

Alexandria is one of the most strategically located cities in the union in the matter of rail and water connections with home and foreign markets. Raw materials can be brought in and manufactured goods can be shipped out at as little cost as from any other point in the country.

Alexandria can be made a manufacturing center and very prosperous. All about is a country of direct access, abounding in raw material and food supplies. And great markets can be reached by car or boat loaded right from factory platforms. Never was there a better time for Alexandria to speak than at this time, when money is looking for safe investments.

The Gazette intends to help along the good work of telling of Alexandria's advantages and bringing in new enterprises and people but it must have the support of our citizens.

An extra issue of the Gazette is under way, and it is hoped and believed that every person interested in the city's welfare will join heartily in the work of sending copies to friends in all parts of the union. Every man, however humble, has his influence. Every citizen by sending away the Gazette to a friend sends an invitation to that friend to come to Alexandria and join the procession.

Mr. Moses Folsom, for a number of years connected with the land and industrial department of the Southern Railway, will aid the Gazette in the issuing of the special edition.

FIRE DRILL ON STEAMER.

Supervising Steamboat Inspector Oast and J. E. B. Stuart, Collecter of Customs at Newport News, came up from Norfolk on the steamer Washington this morning, and, at their request, Capt. Frank M. Phillips gave an exhibition of a fire drill while the steamer was between this city and Washington. Water was being thrown in streams in every section of the steamer within twenty seconds after the alarm had been sounded while the six life-boats had been trained out and ready to be launched in one minute and forty-five seconds. Capt. Phillips was heartily congratulated by the officials upon the promptness of the steamer's crew in responding to the alarm and expressed pleasure at witnessing the drill.

CARD FROM MR. SNOWDEN.

To my many friends who have urged me to become a candidate for the Mayoralty and who have so generously assured me of their hearty support, I extend my sincere thanks, but must decline to enter the contest for the office. I have neither the time nor inclination to make the personal canvass which, I have been informed, would be expected of me, and am unwilling to undertake anything so distasteful as the soliciting of votes for myself, even though it were to attain the distinction of Mayor of Alexandria, which I would be, in fact, were I elevated to the position. My term of office in the City Council, in which I have served continuously for over a quarter of a century, extends for two years longer, during which time I will endeavor to render all the aid in my power in advancing Alexandria's interests in each and every particular.

JULIAN Y. WILLIAMS.

SATURDAY EVENING, MAR. 28, 1908.

A Tough Contract.

"Well, Caleb," said Captain W. of Massachusetts years ago, "what will you ask a day to saw wood for me? I've got several cords that I want sawed in two for the fireplace."

"I should charge you about half a dollar a day if I had a saw," replied Caleb, "but I ain't got none, captain, so I don't see how I can accommodate you."

"If that's all that's lacking I guess we can manage it," said the captain. "I've got a prime new one, keen as a brier, and I'll let it to you reasonable. How would ninepence (12½ cents) a cord do for the use of it?"

"I reckon that's a fair price, captain. I'll be over in the mornin'."

Bright and early that next July morning Caleb was at work, and he kept at it so faithfully that he finished before sunset, when he went to the house to settle.

"Let's see," said the captain, "you were to have half a dollar a day. We'll call it a day, although it ain't sundown yet. That's 50 cents for you, and you were to pay me ninepence a cord for the use of the saw. There were three cords and a half in the pile. That makes 43¾ cents due me. Somehow, Caleb, you don't have very much coming to you."

"How unfortnit," said Caleb after scratching his head dubiously for half a minute and then looking up quickly, as if a new light had broken in upon his mind—"how unfortnit that you didn't have half a cord more, for then we'd 'a' come out jest square."

The First House of Commons.

The earliest traces of the English house of commons are found in the year 1265. That year Simon de Montfort, earl of Leicester, caused writs to be issued in the king's name requiring each sheriff of a county to return to a parliament which he proposed to hold two knights for the shire under his jurisdiction, two citizens for each city within its limits and two burgesses for each borough. The parliament thus called met in London on Jan. 22, 1265, and was practically the first in which the people, as distinguished from the nobility and aristocracy, had ever participated. It was not until the revolution of 1688, however, that the people were fairly and squarely represented in parliament. The house of commons is today the supreme power in England. Its will is law, the lords and king being, as Walter Bagehot long ago declared, men "ornamental." The power of the crown in England is merely nominal, as is that also of the house of lords. When the people speak out loudly through their house of commons, that as a general rule settles it.

Too Impulsive.

A man who had figured in two street car accidents made an attempt after his second recovery to renew his accident insurance policy. The company refused to insure him again.

"We can't afford to," said the agent, "on account of your habits."

"My habits?" explained the man. "What's the matter with my habits? I don't drink or anything like that."

"No," said the agent, "perhaps not, but you do something just as bad from our standpoint. You are impulsive, you take unnecessary chances in crossing streets, and, what is worst of all, you get off a car backward. We know, for we have watched you. So far as this company is concerned, no more insurance can be issued to a man who habitually leaves the car crab fashion. The liability to accident is too great."—New York Post.

Bamboo Pole Pails.

The Moros, who live in the thatched houses built along the shore of a lake or river, have a curious way of conveying water from the lake or river to their Filipino kitchens. They use large bamboo sticks from which have been removed all the partitions characteristic of the bamboo, leaving only one at the bottom. The bamboo trunk is thus made to serve the purpose of a bucket. It is like a long narrow pail and holds several gallons of water, for the bamboo trunk is quite thick. The Moro women are the water carriers, as this is a part of the household duties which naturally fall to them. They grind the rice and other grain in a large hollowed out log, using a heavy pole to crush the kernels.—New York Herald.

Effective Reflecting.

"It is so sudden!" exclaimed the fair haired girl, who had just received a proposal to merge her identity in that of a would be protector. "You must give me time to reflect."

"No, no!" retorted the diplomatic young man. "One whose dazzling beauty makes a mirror ashamed of itself should never go into the reflecting business. Let this solitaire diamond do the reflecting."

And the records of the license clerk show that it was even so.

The Pessimistic Poet.

The rose that smells the sweetest is the first to fade. The boy who runs the fastest is the one to soonest jade. The brightest of the evenings has the gloomiest of dawns. The man with the biggest yard must cut the biggest lawns.—Albany Ledger.

The Chaser.

His Wife—George, I heard you and Mr. Fullup talking about a "chaser" a little while ago. A chaser is an animal of some kind, isn't it?

Mr. Drysome—Yes. It's a kind of—er—water animal.—Exchange.

Then There Was Trouble.

Young Wife—Today is the anniversary of our wedding. I shall have one of the chickens killed in honor of the occasion. Her Husband—Oh, leave it alone. It wasn't the chicken's fault!
